TRAINING ANNOUNCEMENT

COURSE TITLE: Mitigating Hazards with Land-Use Planning (MGT-474)

DATE: January 28, 2025

LOCATION: Campbell County Fire Training Center
10 Training Center Drive
Highland Heights, KY

TIME: 8:00 AM - 5:00 PM

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This one-day (or 8-hour) management-level training course aims to improve hazard mitigation through the implementation of land-use planning tools. The course provides training on the integration of hazard mitigation and land-use planning efforts and on choosing land-use tools that address different natural hazard challenges. The course will include both community-scale land-use planning tools, like comprehensive plans and hazard mitigation plans, as well as site-scale tools like setback requirements and transfer of development rights (TDR) programs.

As a management-level course, this training is intended to provide participants with a working knowledge of land-use planning tools that can mitigate the impacts of natural hazards and help local governments to protect their community lifelines.

PARTICIPANT CRITERIA:

As a management-level course, the target audience for this class includes participants from a wide range of sectors who contribute to hazard mitigation plans, policies and projects. This complete audience list would include engaged citizens, emergency managers, coastal zone managers, federal/state/tribal/ territorial/local government officials and planners, developers, private sector, non-governmental organizations, public utilities, public works, security professionals and the general public -- whole community partners who need to plan for, mitigate, and recover from hazards and disasters impacting communities. The courses will be particularly beneficial to local government emergency managers, planners, public administrators, elected officials, and engaged citizens who help formulate and implement land-use and hazard mitigation plans and policies.

PERQUISITE:
